

EAGER TO SEE
THE ACCUSEDGreat Crowd at Trial of Hattie
Le Blanc, Aged 17

HUNDREDS WERE BARRED

Attorneys in Trial of Girl for Murder
Quibbled over a Technicality as to Admission of Glover's Dying Statement.

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 29.—The trial of Hattie LeBlanc for murder of Clarence F. Glover was resumed in the criminal court this morning, with a gigantic crowd struggling for a sight at the girl. Hundreds stood outside the building, unable to gain entrance and drenched with rain. Hattie was pale and tired and her lips twitched nervously. She sat between Mrs. Warner, the jail matron, and court officer Rhodes. The jury were not present during the argument on the point raised by Hattie's chief counsel, Melvin Johnson, that Glover's words "Hattie shot me" were not his dying statement; hence, they were not admissible in District Attorney Higgins' address. The witnesses who testified at the Glover inquest were examined for credibility of what they remembered testifying. Herbert King remembered testifying that he reached Glover first after the shooting.

Thomas Connors remembered that he asked Glover who shot him and that Glover replied, "Hattie LeBlanc". Medical Examiner West, who performed the autopsy, testified primarily to Glover's wounds. Mary Dutch testified regarding what she said at the inquest, that she heard Glover say "I'm shot; I'm dying". Patrick Mathew denied that he testified at the inquest. He heard Glover say he was dying.

The jury was selected in two hours and 35 minutes. It is made up as follows: Foreman, Winthrop H. Fairbank, farmer, Sudbury; Charles H. Perry, painter, Burlington; Gilman R. Carter, clerk, Reading; J. Frank Robbins, farmer, Stow; James G. McCreath, painter, Newton; Elexia D. Merrill, retired, Ayer; Lawrence F. Yeager, teamster, Natick; William H. Campbell, farmer, Wayland; Albee Ames, electric web weaver, Shirley; Wilfred A. Clark, harness manufacturer, Newton; Patrick S. Ward, merchant, Chelmsford, and Leon A. Whitecomb, lawyer, Pepperell.

At 3 o'clock the squadrons of a dozen or more automobiles bearing the jurors, attorneys and deputy sheriffs, rolled away from the court house. When they stopped in front of the Glover house, 848 Main street, they were shivering and covered with dust.

Although Mrs. Glover was at home, she did not show herself. Neighbors peered from windows and porches at the crowd, in which the white staffs of the court officers loomed conspicuously. District Attorney Higgins led the jurors around the house, which is surrounded by a wide lawn. He told the jurors to take particular notice of a side balcony and a bulkhead. Attorney Johnson pointed out the windows of the corner room, where Hattie LeBlanc was found. Mr. Higgins then called attention to the large doghouse in the yard and to the north side of the barn, where he called attention to a cellar runway.

The party was then escorted across a field in the rear of the Glover house, through a fence forming the blind end of Barton street, then down Town street to Main, where the automobiles were taken again for the Waltham laundry across the bridge, half a mile away. The party passed through a driveway from Moody street into the laundry yard.

WOMAN ACTOR SHOT.
Realistic Performance Before Curtain Went Up at Springfield.

Springfield, Mass., Nov. 29.—Realistic theatricals were enacted last night by a local Italian company in an amateur performance in Graves' hall when, in the rehearsal previous to the curtain raising, Miss Maria Verdiani, one of the performers, was shot in the right leg by the accidental discharge of a revolver.

The play was named, "The Priest, the Police and the Victim," and the hall was packed with about 1,000 people, awaiting the beginning of the performance at 8 o'clock. The program included the dramatics with a dance to follow, the affair being given by local Italian talent.

The shooting occurred just as Carlo Marino, the manager, was about to give the word to raise the curtain.

A CASSIE CHADWICK VICTIM.

A. B. Spear Died Last Night in Detroit, Mich., Quite Suddenly.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 29.—A. B. Spear, former cashier of the Oberlin National bank, lured by Cassie Chadwick of $200,000 or more, died suddenly here last night.

Less than a year ago Mr. Spear was discharged from the penitentiary at Columbus, Ohio, after serving a seven-year term for his share in the Chadwick swindle. Almost immediately he came to this city and began working for the Michigan State Telephone company. At the time of his death he was traveling auditor. His death followed an operation for appendicitis.

PROVIDES FOR FIANCEE.

Will of Pittsburgh Banker Leaves Annuity of $1,000 and Income.

Pittsburg, Nov. 29.—By the terms of the will of Frederick Gwiner, Jr., a wealthy North Side banker and contractor, which was made public yesterday, Miss Mary A. Leach, a glove buyer in a department store, will receive an annuity of $1,000 besides the proceeds from 30 shares of stock, which pays large dividends.

Miss Leach and Mr. Gwiner were to be married just previous to the illness that caused his death on April 27.

TAFT EULOGIZES PILGRIMS.

Testifies to His Gratitude That He Is a Descendant.

Washington, Nov. 29.—President Taft eulogized the Pilgrim fathers at the 11th annual banquet of the Society of Mayflower Descendants in the District of Columbia last night, the occasion being the celebration of the 290th anniversary of the signing of the compact in the cabin of the Mayflower.

President Taft, it was recently learned, is a descendant of Francis Cooke, one of the Pilgrims who came in the Mayflower, and a certificate of membership was tendered him by the president of the local society, former Justice Henry Brown of the United States supreme court, the toastmaster of the evening. "I wish to testify to my gratitude at being advised that I am a descendant of one of those who came over in the Mayflower," said the president. "Time was when I thought those who came over in the Mayflower plumed themselves as belonging to the aristocracy of the nation. On the contrary, I believe now, that they showed a humility and proper spirit of republicanism and democracy."

Speaking of the reason why the landing of the pilgrims was so important in the early history of the United States, President Taft declared it was because the Pilgrims were among the first who "landed and stuck in that country of pleasant summer residences, New England."

"They showed the uses and needs of a written constitution," he continued. "They showed a great capacity for self government that, without making invidious comparisons, has lent moral fibre and moral duty to the whole settlement of the United States."

DRAMATIC SUICIDE
OF ACCUSED MANGeorge W. Tufts Shot Himself After Calling Out Former Bank Official to Witness the Act—Tragedy at Rockport, Mass.

Rockport, Mass., Nov. 29.—George W. Tufts, former cashier of the Rockport National bank, who was recently indicted for the alleged larceny of $8,000 from the bank, committed suicide by shooting here late yesterday. He was out on bail pending an examination as to his sanity.

About two weeks ago, Tufts retracted his former plea of not guilty and pleaded guilty to one of the eight counts of the indictment. He was then released on bail pending the question of having him examined as to his sanity.

Yesterday, Mr. Tufts left town, without informing anyone where he was going. Returning on a late afternoon train, he walked to the home of Loring Grimes, former president of the bank, whose wife is Tufts' aunt. Tufts rang the bell and when a servant had called Mr. Grimes to the door, Tufts tore open his coat and before Mr. Grimes could make a move to prevent him, drew a revolver and shot himself through the heart. He dropped on the steps, and Dr. F. M. Tupper, who was quickly summoned, stated that death was instantaneous.

Following the regular examination of the Rockport National bank in April last, a bank examiner made an unexpected visit to the institution late in June. After looking over the bank's books, he had a conference with bank officials and when he returned to Boston, Tufts went with him. The cashier was taken into the federal court and held for the grand jury, which later indicted him on eight counts, charging larceny and forgery of notes. It was charged that he obtained about $8,000 from the bank, partly by means of notes or which he is alleged to have forged the name of his wife and of Alvin Smith of Portland, Me. Tufts pleaded not guilty, but later decided to change his plea.

Tufts, who was 52 years old, had long been prominent in town affairs and had served as town treasurer and selectman. He leaves a widow and one son.

UNKNOWN BURGLAR DIES.

Shot a Policeman Fatally in Street
Fight at Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 29.—In a revolver fight at 10th and Pine streets last night, Policeman Bennett was shot in the spine and died in the University hospital later, and an unknown man, supposed to be a burglar, was shot and killed.

Bennett, who was in civilian dress, had been sent to watch the locality, as a number of burglaries had recently been committed there. At 40th and Pine streets he saw two men who aroused his suspicion and he followed them. They separated at 42nd street and he followed one who had entered an alley. When he began to question the man, the latter drew a revolver and shot him through the body. As the policeman fell, he drew his own revolver and fired two shots at his fleeing assailant. The latter dropped dead with bullets in his hip and abdomen.

The dead man was about 35 years old, five feet eight inches tall and weighed about 140 pounds. The tags had been carefully removed from his tailor made garments, but his raincoat was of a Philadelphia make and the shoes had been made in Boston. He had $182 in his pockets.

And the Other Was Injured by Locomotive
Last Night.

Everett, Mass., Nov. 29.—Mary and Hester Desfano, twin sisters, 14 years of age, Chelsea, were struck by a Boston and Albany freight train at East Everett last night and Mary was instantly killed, while Hester was badly injured. Mary was ground beneath the wheels of the locomotive. Hester was struck a glancing blow and knocked to one side, sustaining numerous bruises and contusions.

WILL FIGHT HOME RULE.

Orangemen Secretly Organizing to Forcibly Resist—$50,000 Available.

Belfast, Ireland, Nov. 29.—It has been learned that the Orangemen are organizing secretly to forcibly resist the attempt of the Irish for home rule. It is declared that they have $50,000 available to buy arms the day an Irish parliament is named. Two great unionist Orangemen meetings were held last night, one secretly, for the purpose, it is declared, of organizing a fight against the home rule force.

LONG CAREER
AS EDUCATORPres. Buckham of University of Vermont Dead

AFTER 10 DAYS' ILLNESS

He Had Been at the Head of the State
Institution for Nearly Forty Years.
He Was a Scholar, Writer and Public Speaker.

Burlington, Nov. 29.—Matthew Henry Buckham, president of the university of Vermont for nearly forty years and one of the country's leading men of letters, died at his home in this city this morning after an illness of ten days.

Pres. Buckham was 78 years old. He was born July 4, 1832, in Hinckley, Leicestershire, England, the son of the Rev. James and Margaret (Barnby) Buckham, the former of Scotch and the latter of English blood. The Rev. James Buckham was an independent English clergyman for fourteen years. In 1834 he came to America and preached for many years in Canada and Vermont. He died in this city at the age of 92 years.

Matthew Henry Buckham prepared for college under the instruction of his father, a classical scholar of no mean ability, and was graduated from the university of Vermont with the degree of bachelor of arts in the class of 1851.

At that time, although only 19 years old, he received the highest honors of his class. For the two years immediately following he acted as principal of Lenox academy, in Massachusetts. Then for a year he came back to his university, where he acted as a tutor of languages.

The years 1854 and 1856 Mr. Buckham spent abroad in study, mainly in Germany and England. Upon his return to this country he was made a professor of Greek at the university of Vermont. This chair he held until he was elected to the presidency in 1871, although from 1863 to 1871, he acted as professor of rhetoric and English literature.

Mr. Buckham was Vermont's 11th president. In 1871, when Pres. Buckham began his long term of office, there were but six buildings upon the campus, and now there are 25. The faculty has increased from 14 members to over 80 at the present time and the number of students has reached over 500. The greatest prosperity and expansion and growth of the university has come during President Buckham's administration.

But it is not only in connection with the university that Mr. Buckham has rendered service. He served as town superintendent of education, as city school commissioner from 1869 to 1880, and he was a member of the state board of education, 1867 to 1874. In 1875 he served on the board of examiners at West Point. He was president of the board of trustees of the Fletcher library from its opening in 1875 to the time of his death. During his college course he joined the Sigma Phi fraternity and he was an honorary member of the Algonquin club.

Mr. Buckham was known as a speaker on religious, social and educational themes. And these were chiefly the subjects of his essays: "The Art of Living Together," "Not to Destroy But to Fulfill," "The Real Bible," "The Economic Situation," "The Very Elect," "Reserve in Matters of Religion," "Dead Languages, Forsooth," "The Preacher's Opportunity as Seen by the College President," "On Mighty Pens," "The Love of Difficulty," "The Rustle Speech of the English-Speaking People," "School Examinations," "Concordia Alumnus," "The Cultivation of the Memory," "The Culture of the Imagination," "Moral Conditions of Intellectual Attainment," and "Scholarly Accomplishments in Everyday Life."

President Buckham's services were much in demand on formal occasions of a public nature, such as the funerals of ex-Gov. J. Gregory Smith, Frederick S. Billings, Senator J. S. Morrill and G. B. Beattie and many others. In the spring of the 100th anniversary of Senator Morrill's birth, he was also exceedingly happy as an after-dinner speaker, and perhaps more than any other Vermontor of the present day, he had the faculty of always saying the right thing in the right way at the right time.

President Buckham received the degree of doctor of divinity from both Dartmouth and Hamilton colleges in 1877. In 1909, Middlebury college conferred upon him the degree of doctor of laws. Dartmouth and Wesleyan in 1909 each gave him the same degree, doctor of laws. His master's degree in arts he took early in his career at Vermont. He was the last surviving member of his class of 1851.

Mr. Buckham married December 3, 1867, Miss Elizabeth Wright of Shoreham. They had five children, of whom James, the eldest, a journalist, died about three years ago. John Wright Buckham is a clergyman in Berkeley, Cal., Charles Wyman is an architect in New York City, Robert Barnby is a lawyer in Salem, Mass., and a daughter, Mary, the wife of William Marsh, resides in Boston. After the death of his first wife, Mr. Buckham married, in September, 1897, Martha G. Tyler, a daughter of the Rev. Josiah Tyler, D. D., a missionary in Africa for many years and later of St. Johnsbury. Mr. Buckham is survived by his second wife and one young daughter, and by four of his children by the first marriage.

President Buckham had been troubled, more or less, for a year with a bronchial affection and it was partly to seek relief from this that he went to England directly after the university closed last year. The trip was not altogether successful, although he returned with a fair measure of health and was able to take up his duties as president with the opening of college in September.

Macabees, notice! The record keeper will be at the hall Wednesday afternoon, November 30, from 2 until 4:30 o'clock, to receive the November assessments.

POULINEY MAN SHOT
BY CARELESS ACTHe Tossed a Rifle From Ground On to Load of Wood and the Weapon
Was Discharged, Bullet Hit-

Poultney, Nov. 29.—Michael O'Brien of East Poultney was shot and seriously wounded yesterday when a 32-calibre gun which he was handling, accidentally exploded as he tossed it on a load of wood. It is not probable that he will die although the bullet entered his left side and glancing off a short rib came out through the back.

"I wish to testify to my gratitude at being advised that I am a descendant of one of those who came over in the Mayflower," said the president. "Time was when I thought those who came over in the Mayflower plumed themselves as belonging to the aristocracy of the nation. On the contrary, I believe now, that they showed a humility and proper spirit of republicanism and democracy."

THE VALUE OF
AFFECTIONS LOWEREDVerdict of $5,000 for Alienation Reduced to $1,800 in Miller-Pierce
Case, Tried Recently in Rutland County Court.

Rutland, Nov. 29.—On the ground that it was excessive under the evidence, Judge E. L. Waterman of Brattleboro today ordered that the verdict of $5,000, recently given in Rutland county court in the alienation of affections case of Mrs. Jennie Miller of Brandon vs. Miss Emma Pierce, be cut to $1,800.

Mrs. Miller was the wife of a well-known National Guard captain. The motion was made last week by the defense to have the verdict set aside. T. W. Maloney of Rutland was counsel for the plaintiff and J. G. Sargent of Ludlow and E. J. Ormsby of Brandon for the defendant.

TAKEN DOWN LADDERS.

Women Were Rescued at Providence Fire
Yesterday.

Providence, R. I., Nov. 29.—There was a big fire scare in the business center yesterday afternoon. Women were taken down ladders by volunteers. The excitement was intense for a brief period.

The flames were caused by an explosion of varnish dryer in the Cohen hardware and electrical store at 461 Westminster street. Exit was cut off and citizens from the crowded street rushed to the assistance of numbers of women and two aged men who occupied apartments in the upper stories of the wooden block. Joseph H. Cohen, the proprietor, also had a narrow escape. There were several persons taken from two dentists' offices in the building.

Several streams of water soon smothered the blaze. The building is known as the Adie mansions. It was an aristocratic old dwelling, raised and reconstructed.

WOMAN PINNED UNDER AUTO.

Stone Bearing Part of Weight Saves
Life of Mrs. B. Bryant.

Winsted, Ct., Nov. 29.—A car owned and driven by E. R. Sperry, a to-lacco grower of Marlborough, in which were Mrs. Sperry and her guest, Mrs. B. Bryant of Brooklyn, turned turtle yesterday on a steep hill. Mrs. Bryant was pinned beneath the car in a ditch. Part of the tonneau just touched her neck, but a stone on which a part of the tonneau also rested prevented the entire weight from crushing her life out.

One of Sperry's legs was broken and he sustained painful bruises, but the two women escaped little the worse for their experience.

As Sperry was negotiating a steep hill his engine balked. The brakes refused to work. In attempting to avoid an accident, he ran the car as it started backward into the ditch and it upset.

SEVEN MEN FIRED

And Entire Camp of Italian Laborers

After a disturbance in the Italian camp in Fairbanks village Sunday night the entire party was ordered under arrest and 20 were taken to the police station. Those bearing marks of the fray were tried before Justice Worcester yesterday.

BURNS TO DEATH IN HOME.

Portland Woman's Clothing Takes Fire from Match.

Portland, Me., Nov. 29.—Miss Georgia Evans was so severely burned in a fire in her home, 86 Wilnot street, yesterday, that she died while being taken to the hospital.

It is supposed that Miss Evans struck a match to light a gas stove and set fire to her clothing. Her shrieks were heard by neighbors, who found her on the floor with most of her clothing burned off.

TIME HANGS
HEAVILYOn Hands of House Members
Not in Session Today

ONE-SESSION PLAN POOR

There Are Not Enough Places for Committees to Meet at the Same Time in Forenoon—Senate Does a Little Work.

With no session of the House this morning and the Senate only in session about 15 minutes, things were rather quiet about the State House during the forenoon. There is considerable question about the success of the one-session plan, for while some committee meetings were held the bulk of the members chatted in the corridors or read in their seats and time seemed to hang heavy on their hands. Another difficulty is providing rooms for so many committee meetings and it is a very serious one. The committee meetings scheduled this morning were those of municipal corporations, grand list, agriculture, general, highways and bridges, banks, judiciary, education and corporations. There were others that met in nooks and corners, wherever a place could be found that afforded any sort of privacy.

At the Senate, Lieut.-Gov. Slack announced as the members of the conference committee on the trustee-process matter Senators Cushman, Dale and Arrighi.

House bills amending the charter of the Burlington Traction company, providing markers for neglected graves and for the ventilation of schoolhouses were ordered to a third reading.

The Senate committee on the proposals of amendment to the constitution held its meeting this morning and voted to report all of the ten amendments favorably. F. C. Partridge of Proctor, a member of the committee to prepare the amendments, appeared before the committee.

Normal School Fight Dies.

The continuation of the normal school fight in the Senate came to such an evening, through some clever work by the friends of the bill to establish training school courses for teachers in high schools and academies. It was expected that an attempt would be made last evening to reconsider the vote passing the bill, but the tactics of the friends of the bill made it impossible to do this.

This is the way it was done. While the Senate was grinding away at some routine business, the bill was quietly messaged back into the House with the Senate proposal of amendment. The House promptly suspended other business and concurred in the amendment. Speaker Howe lost no time in signing the measure and Assistant Clerk Black then stepped into the Senate with it and had no trouble in obtaining the lieutenant-governor's signature. The bill was then rushed to the governor, who could not sign it quickly enough to suit him.

So when the normal school men woke up the bill was beyond their reach, and they could do nothing but vent their indignation at what they call the high-handed way in which the measure had been railroaded through the Senate. It is thought that the methods used in getting the bill through may possibly result, and that later a bill may be introduced making some substantial amendments to the bill passed last evening.

At its meeting last evening, the House read the third time and passed the following House bills:

An act to pay J. E. Cushman the sum named in the bill; incorporating the Second Congregational church in Bennington; one authorizing the town of Brattleboro to issue bonds; one relating to the general revision of the ordinances of Burlington; one relating to the election of officers in fire districts; an act to pay G. M. Ainsworth the sum named in the bill; one authorizing the trustees and treasurer of Bellows Falls to issue bonds; one relating to the annual meeting of the Milton graded school district; and the bill amending section 15 of No. 328 of the acts of 1906, an act to incorporate the Wells River and Barre Electric Railway company.

The House bill amending sections 3965, 3966 and 3967 of the public statutes was ordered to lie and was made a special order for this afternoon at 2:15 o'clock.

The Senate proposal of amendment was concurred in in the House bill providing teacher training courses in high schools and academies.

House bills relating to the doubling of taxes and relating to dogs were read the third time and passed.

The House bill relating to homicide was ordered to lie and was made a special order for this afternoon at 2:45 o'clock.

Mr. Fletcher of Cavendish, for the committee on rules, moved that when the House adjourned it be to reconvene this afternoon at 1 o'clock, in order to devote the morning to committee work and try and facilitate the work of the session, and it was so voted.

Senate Does Last Evening.
At the session of the Senate last evening, a number of new bills were introduced, as follows:

By Senator Field, amending section 12, acts of 1906, incorporating the Addison County Trust Company bank.

By Senator Lyford, an act relating to the admission and discharge of voluntary insane patients. Provides that they shall not be discharged without giving 48 hours' notice of such intention.

By Senator Lyford, an act providing lights on horse-drawn vehicles. All vehicles drawn by horses or other animals shall carry one or more lights at night.

By Senator Butler, an act to amend section 3199, P. S., relating to license. In the vote of counties for license, if no vote exceeds the yes vote in the whole county, no license shall be granted in that county. If the county goes yes, license shall only be granted in towns having a majority for license.

By Senator Butler, an act providing for investigation of divorce cases. Provides that whenever a divorce case is tried the court may order the state's attorney to appear, and if he is unable to do so, the court shall appoint another attorney to represent libelee; attorneys to receive $5 per day, to be paid by the state.

A message was received from the governor, stating that he had approved and signed the Senate bill, relating to the amendment of section 4087 of the public statutes, relating to operators' licenses.

The following Senate bills were read the third time and passed: An act relating to joinder of counts in assumpsit and covenant; one creating a commission on probation and one relating to expectorating in public places.

The following House bills were passed in concurrence: Providing for notice to public service commission of the organization of corporations; relating to copyrights of Vermont reports; to pay the state of W. H. Gilmore a certain sum; to provide for ascertainment of damages in the event of a change of motive power.

The Senate bill relating to the location of depots by the public service commission was killed, on motion of Senator Butler.

ARRESTED A SUSPECT.

Accused of Breaking Into B. B. Scribner's Store at Corinth.

Chelsea, Nov. 29.—About four months ago, B. B. Scribner's store at Corinth was broken into, and a large quantity of goods were stolen; but as the thief was cunning enough to "cover his tracks," Mr. Scribner was entirely in the dark as to who perpetrated the deed. So he kept still, but all the while harkening. During the past few weeks, certain matters and things had come to Mr. Scribner's ears that led him to suspect a young man by the name of Harvey Ward, who lives near Corinth Corners, and on Friday he presented evidence before the state's attorney, who immediately made out a complaint and search warrant and placed them in the hands of Sheriff Adams, who with the aid of Deputy G. A. Tracy went to the home of Mr. Ward. Placing him under arrest, they searched the house where they found many of the articles Mr. Scribner identified as having been taken from his store on the night it was robbed. A preliminary hearing was held at the state's attorney's office Friday evening before Justice J. M. Comstock, when sufficient evidence was presented to satisfy the justice that the young man should be bound up to county court, and such was the disposition made of him. Failing to furnish bail, he was committed to the jail.

Delaney, Woodsville, N. H.

A program of musical excellence was tendered the patrons of the Pavilion last night, a program that it would seem impossible to improve. Still, the management says that he is assured of still better programs in future, as the agent who furnishes the vaudeville used at the Pavilion has recently opened offices in New York and Philadelphia, thus putting him in touch with all vaudeville acts in the three largest cities on the eastern side of the continent, namely, Boston, New York and Philadelphia, thus assuring all theatres on his circuit of the best there is in vaudeville. LaDon and Viretta proved highly amusing. They carry special scenery for their act, which is a rude sketch, in which they introduce contortion and acrobatic stunts. The Steppin' trio is the best act of the kind ever seen in Barre, and they were forced to respond to several encores. It is doubtful if the theatregoers of this city will ever see a better act of this kind. The baseball picture is the best baseball film ever exhibited in the city. Some parts of the picture show the entire diamond, with the players in action. Two other excellent films were also shown. Altogether the show proves up to the highest expectation of all.
